Bellevue nurse suspended on charges she can't practice safely

OLYMPIA — The license of Bellevue area nurse Jenelia Radacina (LP00050670) has been immediately suspended by the Washington State Nursing Care Quality Assurance Commission and state Department of Health.

The decision is based on allegations that Radacina is unable to practice safely as a licensed practical nurse. Radacina cannot work as a nurse in Washington until charges are resolved.

Radacina had filed complaints against two medical doctors. Based on the nature and content of her complaints, the nursing commission opened an investigation into her mental state and ability to safely practice nursing. Radacina showed extremely erratic behavior when she was interviewed by agency investigators. She claimed that electro-mechanical pulses were controlling her mind, the Department of Health was an intelligence agency under the control of the Central Intelligence Agency, and that she was now targeted as a national security threat.

Radacina has 20 days to respond to the charges and ask for a hearing. Legal documents associated with the case are available on "Provider Credential Search" on the agency's home page (www.doh.wa.gov) or by calling 360-236-4700.

The nursing commission protects public health and safety in Washington. It licenses and disciplines nurses using standards of practice.
